KAZOO COMPENDIUM

TRIGGER WARNINGS: MENTIONS OF GROOMING, MANIPULATION, SUGGESTIVE IMAGERY, ALLUSIONS TO NSFW, INSTANCES OF THE F SLUR

THIS DOCUMENT IS BEST READ VIA DESKTOP. Mobile users will likely struggle to read the screenshots, unfortunately this is something I can't remedy as it is due to the app itself. I apologize for the inconvenience.

Note that all of the images in this document have alt text, both for accessibility reasons and because a majority of the screenshots here are extensively text heavy.

The goal of this doc is mainly to inform others of what Kaz has both done in the past and what he's doing now. He continues to run away and make new accounts whenever I try to talk to him so this will be updating accordingly with any of his socials so people can block and move on. DO NOT WITCHHUNT OR HARASS HIM. He will use it to feed his victim complex. Please just block him, inform others, and move on.

I (Kenni) have attempted to reach out to Kaz privately on multiple occasions for the last near-year in an attempt to solve this without any sort of publicity. This is a last ditch effort to get something through to him.

I would also like to mention that while these are both in the same document, Trevor and I's parts had very little influence by the other person. I wrote my parts and this introduction, he wrote his parts. So I ask that you use my personal contacts to talk about my (rather long) part of this document. My claims and words are not his, and vice versa. Please understand that.

Introductions

Hi! My name is Kenni, and I'm the main person behind this doc (along with Trevor, and the help of some other editors.) I will be writing the first part of this document, and will indicate when the writer has changed. As of right now, I am 18 years old (10/14.) I met Kaz/Margo (otherwise known as Y2_Kazoo, googiekitsch, plasmic/papaplasmic, and most recently Purzdog) around a year and a half ago through a mutual server.

Over the past year or so, I've had multiple documented issues with Kaz, namely dating behind an incident involving me and the youtuber Squimpus McGrimpus (The creator of the FNAF VHS series.) Kaz and me have never been close, but over the course of the last year he has continuously used my story and treated it as his own, publicizing it without my consent. This part of the document will mostly focus on this, as this is the main point of contention in my story.

I'd like to apologize for the length of this doc, as a lot of it is taken up by screenshots with lots of words in them. I wanted to make the images as accessible to read as possible in the document, so I kept them near their original screenshot size. If anyone needs higher quality screenshots, or any more that you think may be necessary, please dm me on twitter or discord @Bumboglungus or on Tumblr @Fartmcbart. Keep in mind, I don't have access to a lot of things, or some screenshots from our older servers.

Kenni's Section

As stated before, I was groomed by the creator of FNAF VHS, around age 14. This has been public knowledge for about a year and a half as of writing this document. You can learn more information on this through the burner account on twitter if you'd like (https://x.com/BurnerAcco50250) but really that's all the context needed. Before we came out publicly with the document, people within Squimp's group were notified in their discord server through an admission of guilt on her part. Prior to this, there were only about 5 people including myself who knew, with Kaz not being one of them.

After we came out with the post publically, we all agreed to have minimal public presence in it out of safety, such as me being completely anonymous, as I was underage at the time. This stayed in place for a few months, with friends only making small statements of support. This however changed around late July of the same year. Kaz began to make long-winded posts publicly to his twitter account about the situation, with the insinuation that he was the victim. Here are a few screenshots from late July to mid October.

These are likely not all of the screenshots, but all the ones I've had on hand before he deleted his twitter earlier last week.

i have nothing to earn but my own peace by posting this.
this is my experience with a serial abuser and groomer, as one of their victims if you can stomach the topics i warn about please read it. getting this out there is the first big step in my recovery.
thank you getting something off my chest
hey everyone. it's late at night and i'm very very scatterbrained as of writing this but i figure i'd just throw this into the void because i have nothing else to do. i don't usually vent publicly but im so mentally distressed right now that i just want to get my story out there. i have decided that for my own peace i am no longer comfortable staying silent about this because the person who abused me did so with every intention of me not speaking out about it. i ask that you do not use this post to make speculative content or anything, please just be respectful. i just want people to know that this shit happened to me and it ruined my life.
trigger warning as i will be discussing incidents of abuse & grooming & horrible, genuinely life ruining manipulation that i was the victim of. these are not light trigger warnings at all, the subject matter handled here within this post is very blatant and if you are rightfully scared about seeing those topics discussed in a post i suggest you keep scrolling.

i need to warn you that i will not be using this persons online name. this isn't to protect their identity. this is because i literally cannot type it or think about it or else i will enter a mental episode. so yeah. needless to say, if you know a certain timeline of events that's happened to me you will instantly know who i am talking about and that's all you need. for the record, i was a minor when this all happened. they were in their 20s.

a few months ago i, very publicly, cut ties with someone in my life who had been exposed for grooming a person. as i uncovered more evidence about them that turned into several people. what i did not realize at the time is that i was one of their many victims, and i also did not realize that i had been abused at all. that's because they hid their own abuse of me from me.

it's important that you know that due to a repeated amount of trauma in my life i have severe memory issues that tend to make me forget large gaps of time, along with me having dissociative fugues at set times due to that being when traumatic events have happened to me.

i knew this person far before i even thought of them as a serial abuser. back then they were my best friend and i discussed things regarding my mental health to them, believing they'd gone through a similar experience, and we'd do this as kind of a joint coping thing. now, i have mental conditions that i shared with them that i would never think to share to anyone else because they're perceived as "inherently evil" disorders and there's a lot of ableism around them that makes me apprehensive at best to share my experiences with having them to the public even amongst this era of mental health acceptance because of the stigma still surrounding them, but to them i shared my experiences with those disorders thinking i could trust them and they would then turn around and use those disorders as an in to groom me.

they knew that these certain disorders were something i never wanted publicized and in order for me to call them out, i would essentially have to out myself for having those disorders in order to find peace. this is why i'm keeping my language so vague as it's letting them win if i disclose this information about myself so just understand that.

what i mean by "they used my disorders to groom me" is that, i shared to them the certain times i would enter my dissociative states just so they would know not to message me then, as during those times i'm very susceptible to being overly agreeable and just generally having repressed trauma come back. so they knew about the times when this would happen. they were aware of the exact times .

then, during one of those times they messaged me.

they basically used my disconnection from reality as an in to groom me into their sexual fantasies and use my agreeable nature when i'm in that state to get me to roleplay with them. this is already disgusting because this is an adult and a minor. but even IF minors could consent - which they can't - then thsi is still fucking sexual assault as i LITERALLY COULD NOT BE IN THE RIGHT MINDSET TO GIVE CONSENT. then when everything was done they went back and deleted all of their messages they sent to me, again with them being the one to initiate these extremely inappropriate advances they would message me after i had calmed down from that state, with only the messages i sent remaining, only to push the blame on me, as if i were the one to make all that happen . they would say shit like “haha you acted so weird last night” and because they were my friend and i thought i did something bad, i laughed it off, but didn’t know how it kept happening, again, my brain does not work like a normal persons does due to trauma so i only connected that something happened after the fact

then this happened another 2 times. then another five times. and then it just kept happening

by the time they’d decided i wasn’t fun to abuse anymore, it was feburary of 2023 and they’d done this to me a total of, from what i can recall, 21 times. not that exact numbers matter, but that’s 20 more times than it takes to realize you should not have done this to someone. there is no excuse for this. they knew what they were fucking doing and that was fun for them.

i had been their friend for just shy of 2 years by then. and given that they called me their best friend and i did the same we talked about literally everything together.

i regret talking to them at all so fucking much now. because now every piece of media that i love that ive EVER talked to them about is just . forever ruined for me. because i see it and i think of them.

seeing the video games i liked at the time now makes me sick. i cant ever watch certain movies even if i loved them. because we talked about quite literally everything and anything the number of media i have to turn to for comfort can only be counted on one hand. aside from that small pool of things they have ruined so many fucking things for me aside from just media that this is going to take years and years to heal from.

i called them out on the biggest platforms i have and they refused to take accountability until i pressured everyone that knew them into confessing publicly. there for a few hours, a few very painful hours, people accused me of bullshitting. for lying for clout. they eventually did confess to everything being true, aside from my experience as i wasn’t aware what was happening at the time . only recently over the past few months have i had the strength to gather a timeline of events together and realize the nightmare scenario id been trapped in this whole time without even knowing it.

when they apologized, they did the usual influencer “i’ve been called out as a fucking pedo” song and dance of trying to dodge strays.

they said “they’d seek help”. “i’m getting therapy”.

yeah fucking right you are, you piece of shit.

do you want to know what you'd be doing if you actually wanted to take accountability? you'd fucking turn yourself in. either that or you'd be completely gone from the face of the earth in whichever way that manifests, and i wouldn't care about how you'd go about doing it but in the case that you died or were put behind bars where you've belonged for fucking years, maybe then i'd be able to find peace.

so go ahead. live your stupid fucking offline life.

but if i hear that you did to others what you've done to me, so help me god you will pay for it.

i have no real way to conclude this.

i'm just tired.

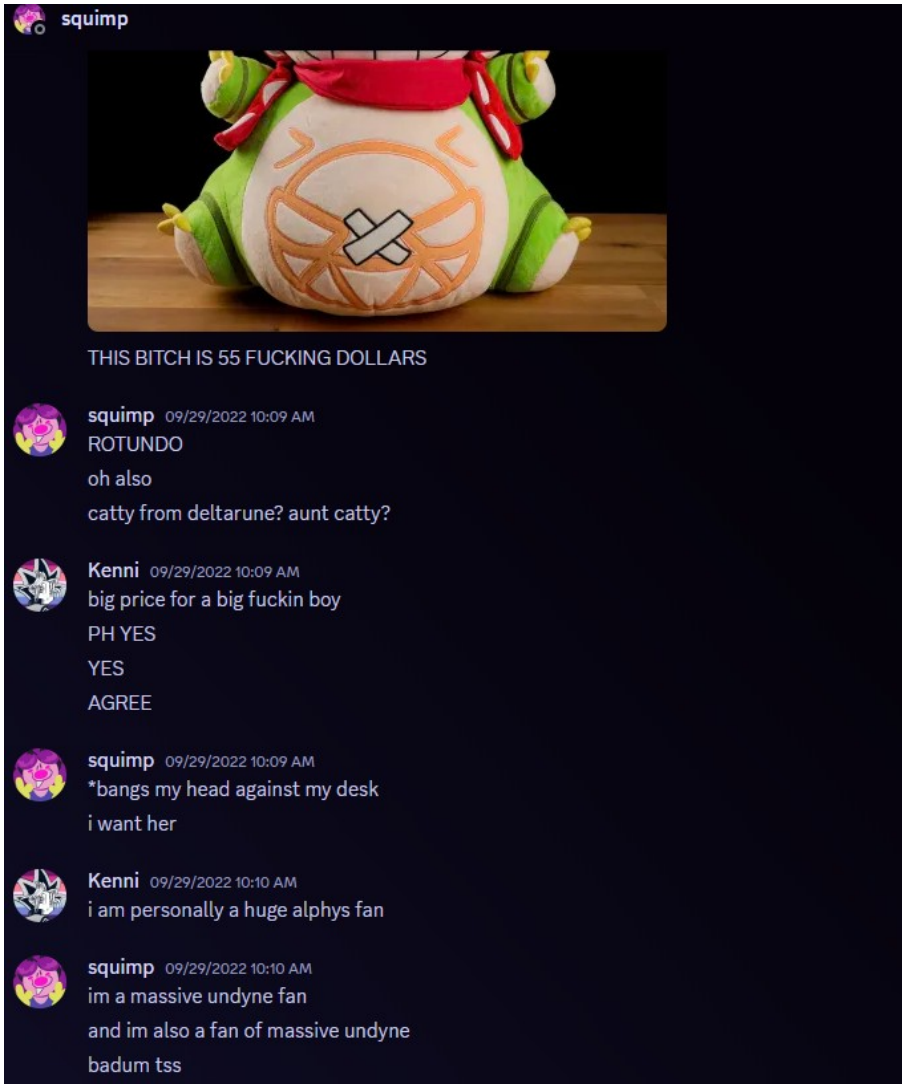
Now, without context this is an entirely believable statement. The main issue behind this is 1. The complete lack of communication prior to posting this within our group, 2. No evidence shown to any friend group, and 3. Kaz never said he was groomed by her until he started publicly posting about it.

Kaz threw around the idea of him possibly being the next victim with us, due to being given some affection, but never said he was actually groomed UNTIL he began to post about it on twitter, insinuating he was “Blue,” the previously anonymous victim of Squimp (who is me, Kenni.) Kaz continuously posted in this manner for months, gaining sympathy.

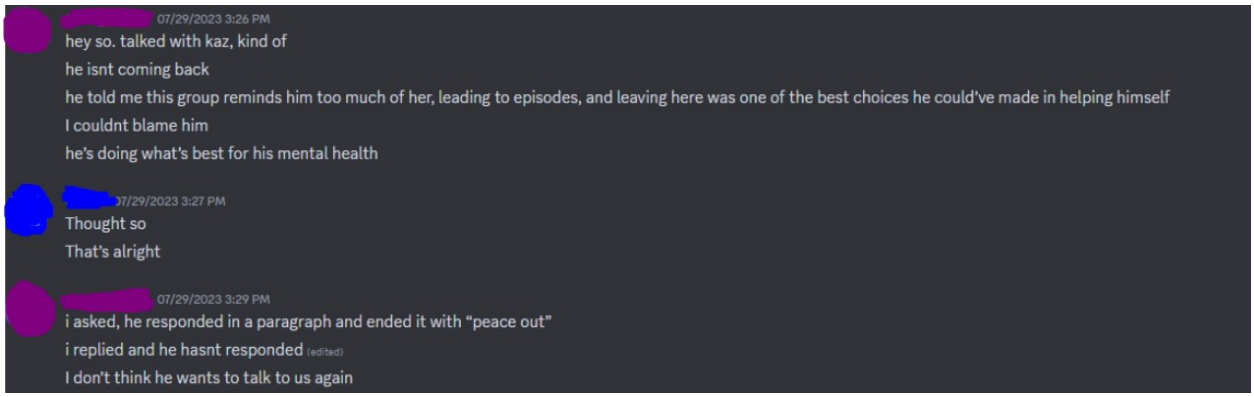
One thing I'd like to mention in particular is Kaz saying the abuse stopped in February 2023, otherwise known as the month before the post came out. This in no way aligns with what actually happened. The last time Squimp interacted with me with any fetish-based mentions was in September of 2022.



Kaz, prior to weeks after the document came out, had not mentioned any possible direct or indirect involvement with Squimp in any public or private spaces, and his story quickly changed from "I am not involved" to "I might have been involved" to "I was directly impacted and we both deleted all our messages, so I don't have any screenshots."

Around the time Kaz started to make these claims, Kaz left our group because he felt as if he didn't fit in, and we reminded him too much of Squimp.

(These usernames and profiles have been omitted, as the two individuals are not involved with the creation of this document.)



07/29/2023 3:26 PM
hey so. talked with kaz, kind of he isnt coming back he told me this group reminds him too much of her, leading to episodes, and leaving here was one of the best choices he could've made in helping himself
I couldnt blame him
he's doing what's best for his mental health
07/29/2023 3:27 PM
Thought so
That's alright
07/29/2023 3:29 PM
i asked, he responded in a paragraph and ended it with "peace out" i replied and he hasnt responded (edited)
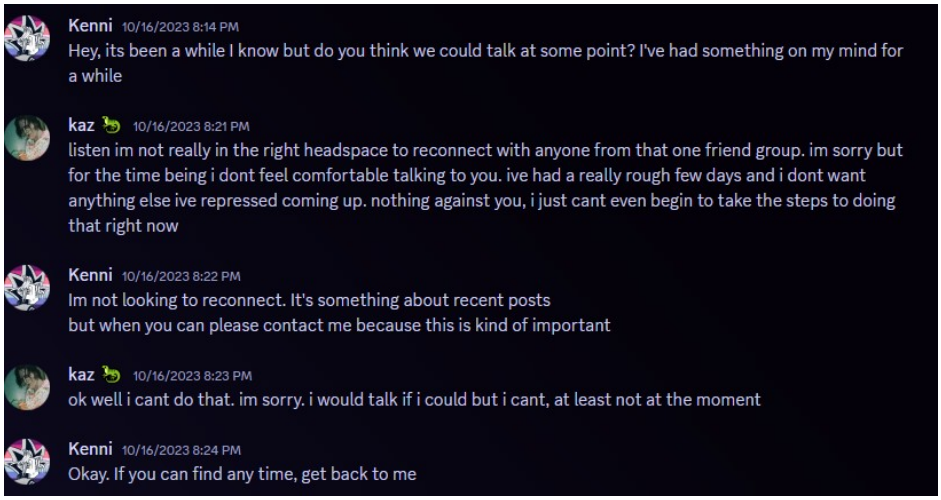
I don't think he wants to talk to us again

After leaving the group, Kaz continued to post about Squimp at least once every other month until October, when I attempted to reach out to him to talk to him about the posts.



Kenni 10/16/2023 8:14 PM
Hey, its been a while I know but do you think we could talk at some point? I've had something on my mind for a while kaz 10/16/2023 8:21 PM
listen im not really in the right headspace to reconnect with anyone from that one friend group. im sorry but for the time being i dont feel comfortable talking to you. ive had a really rough few days and i dont want anything else ive repressed coming up. nothing against you, i just cant even begin to take the steps to doing that right now
Kenni 10/16/2023 8:22 PM
Im not looking to reconnect. It's something about recent posts but when you can please contact me because this is kind of important
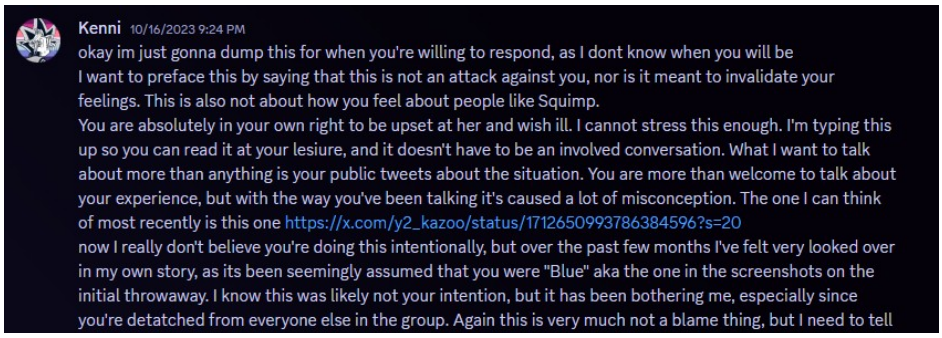
kaz 10/16/2023 8:23 PM
ok well i cant do that. im sorry. i would talk if i could but i cant, at least not at the moment
Kenni 10/16/2023 8:24 PM
Okay. If you can find any time, get back to me



Kenni 10/16/2023 9:24 PM
okay im just gonna dump this for when you're willing to respond, as I dont know when you will be
I want to preface this by saying that this is not an attack against you, nor is it meant to invalidate your feelings. This is also not about how you feel about people like Squimp.
You are absolutely in your own right to be upset at her and wish ill. I cannot stress this enough. I'm typing this up so you can read it at your lesiure, and it doesn't have to be an involved conversation. What I want to talk about more than anything is your public tweets about the situation. You are more than welcome to talk about your experience, but with the way you've been talking it's caused a lot of misconception. The one I can think of most recently is this one https://x.com/y2_kazoo/status/1712650993786384596?s=20 now I really don't believe you're doing this intentionally, but over the past few months I've felt very looked over in my own story, as its been seemingly assumed that you were "Blue" aka the one in the screenshots on the initial throwaway. I know this was likely not your intention, but it has been bothering me, especially since you're detatched from everyone else in the group. Again this is very much not a blame thing, but I need to tell some final thoughts on the alex kister situation. its long and charged, but it comes from a place of experience. this type of thing should never be allowed to happen again. i truly hope those affected by this person can find the peace they deserve.

i cant even describe how upset the alex kister situation makes me. not because I had an attachment to the thing he made, not in the slightest, but its because it is a direct parallel to what i went through like a year ago. down to the manipulation disguised as playful banter so you cant pick up that hes coaxing someone into something at first glance and everything. it was all just so deeply real to me and it hurt to read. seriously. its completely fucking terrifying to see this shit happen over and over and over again with no end in sight, for kids to look up to creatives in a field they admire only to be completely churned out and crushed by those creatives as nothing but perverse objects they can manipulate. if youre a fan of what kister makes and youre upset that you cant like his stuff anymore, you are the lucky one in the scenario. i mean this sincerely when i say you have lost nothing. this dude had unimaginable amounts of power and pressure over the hopeful young kids he manipulated. his victims are getting death threats for speaking out about this shit because of how big his platform is. the children he manipulated? that he abused and took advantage of? they are the ones who are risking losing everything by speaking out about this. the first priority shouldnt be mourning the fact that "my favorite analog horror series is tainted forever now :(" it should be supporting the victims of this. always. and if you dont believe them just because your favorite little analog horror boy makes suuuch good content and could never do such a thing? from the bottom of my heart, as someone whos gone through the same ordeal and all the consequences that come with speaking out about it, fuck you.
had to beg the internet at large to not make memes out of it or turn it into shitty drama content videos because i knew thats how this shit always goes. and it still happened. imagine your trauma, your pain, your betrayal at the hands of someone you trusted, something so evident and clear to see as the blatant vileness that it is, being dumbed down to the thing of the week. or the thing of the month. or the thing you see all year and can't escape from no matter how many people you block or how many people you report. it is the most isolating experience you could possibly go through. i am incredibly fortunate to have survived the pressure that year put through me. i still am haunted by it and its been almost a year since it happened. a full year and it still lingers. that is what the people abused by alex are going to go through because people don't trust victims, as much as we want to universally have hope that they do. i was blamed for it. i was called weak, and pathetic, and that i was 'asking to be groomed' while i was a child and they were in college. they were the one who shouldve known better, and i was the one who had to force them to confess to what they did publicly because they didn't want to. all i ask is that you be there for the people affected by this. im super grateful for everyone that showed me that there were more things to life than the trauma i'd endured, but those people were often the minority. if i was lucky, it would get treated like a joke. really let that sit with you. i still get harassed for this to this day. i fully stand with the people affected by this vile, vile man, and i hope this time it goes down better

Before you say something like last time, this isnt an attempt to reconnect. Far from it. I saw the tweet you posted about the alex kister situation and i cant say im not upset. You've continued to refer to yourself as a sole victim in the aly situation, taking credit for things that were either a group effort, or wasn't your part of the story to share. not to mention none of this is about us. the fact that this message has been left on read in addition to this most makes me think you never read it or particularly cared

I would also like to mention Kaz supposedly got hacked around this point in time, but got his account back within a day, so he would've seen this. However, he stopped going online shortly after the second message was sent, with me later learning he decided to permanently switch accounts. Keep this in mind. I attempted to get in contact with Kaz on this second account, but his DMs were set to friends only, and my friend request was not accepted.

Fast forward to a little less than two weeks ago, when I am put in contact with Trevor by my qpp.

at. im sorry. i would talk if i could but i cant, at least not at the mom
March 22, 2024
PM
any time, get back to me then tried getting a dm into his new acc to no avail and then sort of interesting part, im in the planefood server and on at least 1 occasion he ended up talking to me like. normally like none of this happen which is rather odd also im 90 percent sure the hiatus thing was a cover up bc the day or two after i started dmming him he moved to a new acc even though he got his previous one back

I catch Trevor up, and he DMs Kaz with this message.

Here's the section relating to most of we've talked about here do you think there's anything I should add or remove or just generally improve on
I recently spoke to a person named Kenni and if the stuff they're telling me is true, which I'm assuming so since they have screenshots & accounts from other people to back it up, you are not a good person. I don't think your evil but you seriously need to do something about the way you act because this isn't okay. Constantly talking about an abuse story that involves other people when they have asked to stop talking about it isn't okay. You can't just act like that they don't see it, what you do online is going to effect other people shockingly enough. From what I've seen from Kenni they asked you multiple times to stop posting about all of that shit relating to that fnaf person, I don't even care to say their name, but you ignored them. You should understand what it's like for someone to constantly talk about their abuser since you on MULTIPLE TIMES have said you don't like when people make YouTube videos on the situation and all but it's okay for you to constantly talk about it publicly though, that's hypocritical and I don't stand by that. Of what they've told me all you've done relating to this situation is make yourself the center of it and leak shit against their will. That's super fucking inappropriate.
Kenni 07/11/2024 12:00 PM
i wouldnt say he leaked stuff but other than that i think thats all fine

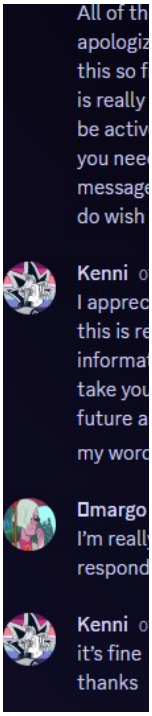
This sparks the second discussion between me and Kaz, this time on his new discord.

Nov ison that I am only s xtremely personal t ng his ability to a able, it was also a no good in showing sion, and here is wh



Two days

I was initially going to wait a few more days before I sent you this, but I decided it would be for the best if we got this out of the way as soon as possible as I've prolonged this situation long enough as is and the thought of prolonging it even another single day longer is eating me up inside.

I am not apologizing because I expect you to forgive me and I certainly do not expect you to become my friend again, rather I just want to express to you just how regretful I am regarding my actions in this situation. I want you to know that I fully condemn my actions in all of this. And I want to stress that no matter how much context I could possibly give behind my state of mind at the time during all this, I am not attempting to excuse my actions at any point in my apology. Please keep in mind that whenever I give context during this, I am not attempting to overshare or or excuse my actions or push my issues onto you, that's the last thing I want to do - but rather I am trying to sort through why I might have done the things I did. I am singling out these motivations so you can have some closure as to why I acted so horribly, and for me to recognize the things that triggered this behavior out of me and use that information to correct my behavior and avoid incidents like that in the future. I also have to disclose that I do not know everything that could've led me to act that way, but I am able to recognize most of my reasonings, be they understandable or not. But I am still in the process of trying to correct my path and I do not want to steer anywhere towards this direction again.

I am not going to say anything like "I'm not the person I was back then" like others would do in this situation. Because I despise when people take that route when they apologize to others, it's just another way of avoiding accountability. The truth is I am still a very messy, very temperamental person. I have had lifelong issues with empathy and sympathizing with other people and while it makes me deeply ashamed to not have that type of social awareness, I now understand that it is way more of an issue than I ever could have understood and that it has led to me acting upon a lot of cruel, selfish, unreasonable things that I am deeply disgusted with. I thought it was something I could just live with and adapt around but I know now that it is something I have to fix by any means necessary. My inability to relate to and sympathize with others, while a part of my neurological condition, does not excuse what I've been doing. I can't change that part of me despite my dire desire to fix it, to remedy it completely - and I am trying strategies to better relate to others and this is a massive lesson to me that I need to take other's feelings into account not only when I say stuff, but when I do anything. I have neglected to do that for so disturbingly long and contemplating the emotions of others, of you especially, for even a single moment during this whole ordeal could've saved everyone involved a lot of retraumitization. I have the hindsight to understand that now, but I didn't then, and I regret beyond words that I could ever be so cruel and self centered.

I really should not have ever taken this public. I feel like an idiot for ever doing that. I wish I could go back in time and teach my past self to have NEVER publicized this all. As much as I would like to go back and be able to magically fix all of this, I can't. All of this happened and while I can't change the fact that it did, I know that I have to be a better person going forward.

I was not thinking rationally despite having rational people around me when I went public with this. People around me were giving sound advice, but I was so hellbent on seeking some abstract total form of justice that I did not listen to their genuine words that could have helped me and instead went down a messy path of self sabotage. While my anger was initially forged out of a need to protect all my friends affected by this, the more I realized how I'd been affected, the more self centered and stubborn to any offers of help whatsoever I got. I became so mad at the situation that I could not focus on what I needed to do most - seperating myself from the situation and healing in a healthy manner. I should have done that and I would've had a normal life, but instead, regrettably, I just wanted the person who harmed me to suffer and did not care for anyone else involved. In hindsight it is deeply scary that I got like that so fast. I had good intentions but they became muddled by my own suffering, and I experienced the worst tunnel vision I had ever gone through in my entire life. I was just focused on myself that whole time and no one else.

And because I could not accept that help I was offered by people who used to care, I did not know how to just shut up. I should have shut up about all of this a long LONG time ago, but whenever I spiraled even slightly even because of completely unrelated reasons I just went back to it like a crutch. To the constant spiral of self pity and misery that blinded me to how much I was hurting others. It convinced me that those who were trying to help me, trying to offer me a chance, were somehow my enemies because they 'didn't understand my struggles' when they were thoroughly good people and I was just being a total stubborn asshole. That's why I denied your advice the first time you told me to stop all those months ago, which I should have listened to and I deeply regret that I didn't. I was in my own pit of misery and despair and couldn't see myself as anything other than a perpetual victim. Once I trapped myself in that spiral for long enough, I became convinced that it was my sole mission to speak up for others who had been abused and to seek justice for them, completely blind to the fact that THOSE were not my journeys to begin with and that i did not speak for everyone who had experienced something like we did, and completely blind to the fact that I was hurting so many people by doing this. It was a complete delusion of grandeur that I imposed on myself, and while it was sourced from a genuine hope that a situation like what happened in March of 2023 would never happen again, the thought that I could prevent every single instance of that happening was just completely unrealistic and I should've taken a step back and examined MYSELF before trying to help others.

Because the truth is I have helped no one with that “mission” of mine. All I have done is just made it worse and more painful for those directly involved with the fallout of that situation. I’m positive that my toxic, loud mouthed, completely inconsiderate and sincerely subhuman behavior has harmed every single former friend of mine and that keeps me up at night. Since I was convinced I had no one to talk to, I tried to get my story out there. I never should have done this. It only made things harder not just for those involved but for me. My behavior was taken way, way, way too fucking far and that might be a given but it’s taken me so long to realize that and I feel so stupid for how long it took me to learn that, and now i’m learning it the hard way. Everything I tried to do was deeply unrealistic. I tried to silence those who praised the abuser by publicly calling them out on every platform. I tried to completely scrub their existence off the internet because I was so sick of hearing them, but selfishly and hypocritically not so sick of hearing them where I would voluntarily stop talking about it. It was an obsession. An obsession that, objectively like all manner of obsessions, only led to further tunnel visioning, and in my case, outbursts of anger, severe and unrealistic paranoia, avoidance of all blame, and constant unjustified self victimizing, when in reality I was no longer the one being hurt. You were.

I have to say it is extremely cathartic to finally be able to see the extent of my toxic actions because at least now I can understand what made me feel so miserable. I was so blinded to it then; why I was so depressed all the time, why I constantly felt guilty and made myself a social recluse during a time in my life in college when I had everything lined up for me to succeed. I failed myself by doing all of this and I accept all the faults that come with that. This has all been a massive reckoning for me and I am so glad that I finally learned my lesson even if I learned it far too late, because I could not imagine just how worse I might’ve become if I continued to ignore all of this like I thought I could. I hate if this comes off as insincere or anything, but I seriously mean it when I say thank you for intervening and speaking out on my awful treatment regarding this situation. I never would have realized just how terrible I was getting otherwise. I still think you are a remarkably strong person, now more than ever. It took a lot of courage for you to put this into motion and even though I have hurt you immensely and you are not on good terms with me in any way, I cannot help but have a huge deal of respect for you during all this and I hope you know that. And I hope my respect for you has been apparent throughout this entire apology even if you no longer respect me. I have come to terms with the fact that I have lost your trust and do not by any means have a right to earn it back. But please know that I do not view you with any hostility or anger or hatred and I have meant everything I’ve said so far wholeheartedly. So in closing, I will leave you with the following.

I cannot apologize enough for the world of hurt and the actual living nightmare I have put you through. I know sorry doesn't do it justice but I am not saying that expecting an apology. This never should've happened in the first place and was entirely my fault. I started this when I had no right to start anything like this at all. I am not proud of the behavior I exhibited then, but instead of continuing to go down that path and deteriorate, I am using this situation as a motivator to improve myself and become a much more stable, civil, mature person that I know I have the capability to be. I have the capability to be a bad person, a very bad person, and you know more than anyone that I have stooped to some very low lows in the past. But now that I have the consequences of my actions laid out for me, I will not be crushed by them or continue to rot away in a pile of victimhood and self loathing. I will never be blinded by revenge or hatred like that ever again. I promise to completely cease mentioning any talk of this on all of my public accounts. I have nothing to gain from doing that (not that I did in the first place). In recent months I've already been making a significant attempt to live a more private life and this was only a further message to me that a private life away from prominent social media is the best possible outcome for me, at least for the time being. I have completely abandoned my twitter and have no plans of returning, I made that decision months ago but I wanted to mention that to ease any worries you might've had regarding that. I do not find that platform satisfying to use in general and quit because it made me anxious just thinking about how many people I was able to have following every word I say, so safe to say I have no plans on making a comeback there. I am taking a long, long hiatus on any platform that is not singularly art focused (mainly my tumblr) because I do not want to return to having a big public platform until I feel responsible enough to handle a venue like that even if it's on a smaller app. I will only be posting art and the like occasionally on websites specifically made for art, but that's about it for my public presence. I've clearly shown that I cannot handle the responsibility of having a platform that massive, and I consider this hiatus from any major social media platforms to be for the best for everyone involved.

I wish you nothing but the best going forward, and I wish the same for all those who have been impacted by my toxic string of behavior. I know the reassurance that I will better myself and promise to do so might ring hollow after I was offered so many chances to redeem myself or even stop all this completely and refuse them each time, but I'm done running and I'm done denying blame. For real this time, and forever. I will become a better person, and I understand if you do not want to stick around me to see that happen and I do not expect you to. But I hope my seriousness, honesty, and forwardness throughout this can display to you that I've already made significant steps in developing into a more positive person. It's far too early in my journey to declare that I am wholly a good person, but I know that with enough commitment, effort, communication, and self reflection, I can become a good person despite it all. For now though, I may be making baby steps towards that path of redemption, but getting there slowly is much better than staying in place and refusing to move at all. I know I have waxed on a lot about how I'm learning from this and how I plan to better myself, and I'm sorry if I lost you anywhere along this ramble, I hate to make anything regarding this about me given my history of already doing that, but I just thought it would be important to communicate to you that I am making steps towards changing and that by doing so, I am assuring you that this nightmare is over and that I will never inflict anything like this on anyone again. Communicating to others more clearly is something I'm still grappling with, so I hope this all was at the very least coherent.

Please do what you can to heal from this situation, I know you have countless people supporting you who will gladly help you through all of this and I am very glad that you have that solid of a support system because you really deserve it. I have no doubt that those people will continue to root for you and that you will only continue to succeed in all that you pursue. For now though, please take things easy, do the things that make you happy, and since you're still sick at the time of me writing this, I hope that you recover swiftly and easily from your ailments - I can only imagine that how hard being sick is while all of this is happening, so I wish that it goes away as soon as possible so you have one less thing to worry about.

I've made peace with the fact that our paths will never cross again because of all this and that you do not wish to know me any further. That is completely fine and understandable and such a decision is ultimately to both of our betterments. So keep being you, Kenni, from the bottom of my heart, I wish you all the best out of all that you want to pursue out of life. I can assure you that you will no longer have to worry about my behavior going forward. I'll live my life, and you'll live yours. Take care.

While not stellar, I was happy to get something, but came up with a set of conditions for Kaz to agree to that I had thought on.

I have two requests for you, which i think are quite reasonable and went over with a few other people. If you do these two requests, i believe this is forgive and forget, and you are free to interact with me as necessary to you (though we likely won't be friends still)

1. make a short, not long or detailed tweet about the misdirected victimhood from you and @ me in it, on your main twitter
2. don't talk about it on your major platforms ever again (not saying you can't vent to friends, but just not on your like 10k+ follower accounts)

thems my terms. if you're fine with that i am willing to forgive and oblige to any sort of talking in the future

I think these are pretty reasonable everything considered and it obviously won't apply to other people as i'm not them, but if you have any things you want to discuss let me know

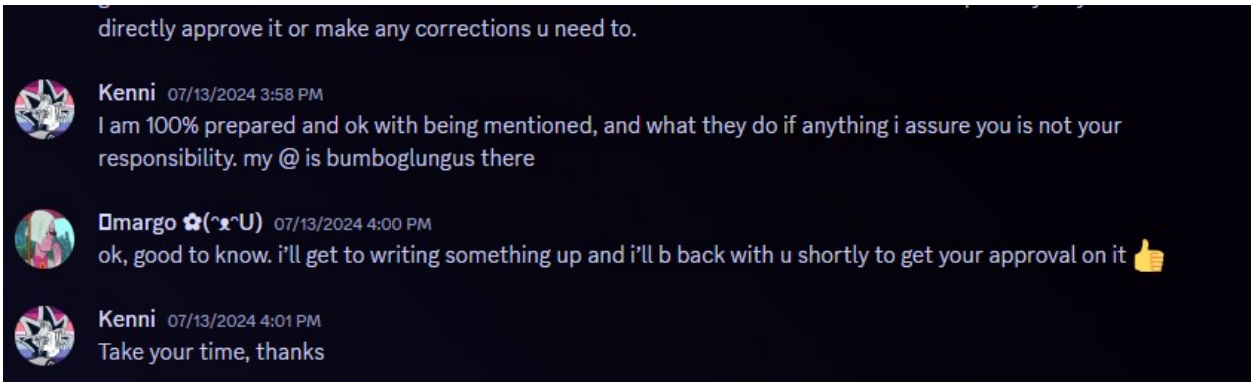
thank you for responding - those are totally fine w me. those are perfectly reasonable asks of me and i am fully willing to work with u on these 👍 the second one i have no notes on but i do have a slight concern regarding the first thing and that is i'm concerned that by directly @ing ur account with the follower amount that i have that i could potentially send unintended hate your way because some of my followers are admittedly Not very mature or reasonable people, and i plan on stating within the tweet that i'm not going to be returning to twitter to focus on bettering myself mentally, and given that, i'm afraid that my followers might use that to try to blame you for why i quit twitter or something. i'm not bringing this up as a means to avoid accountability because i am 100% on board w making a tweet like that explaining the situation briefly, but i know how my followers on there tend to be and i really don't want u going through more stuff than u already have. idk this might be nothing more than an irrational fear of mine or you might have thought that over already, but it's just something to think about i guess. if u still want to go ahead with this i suggest at the very least limiting who can comment or dm you on twitter because i really don't want my followers doing something stupid. also i don't actually know your @ - it's been a while since i've used twitter, like i've been off it since april, so if u could give me that (so long as you are okay with being directly mentioned and all that) i'll go ahead and do that. i'll also send u the text of the tweet i'll make before i send it out publicly so you can directly approve it or make any corrections u need to.

Kaz was initially hesitant on my request to put my user in the post, but I assured him that it was what I wanted personally, and whatever happened after was out of his jurisdiction and not his fault.



directly approve it or make any corrections u need to.
Kenni 07/13/2024 3:58 PM
I am 100% prepared and ok with being mentioned, and what they do if anything i assure you is not your responsibility. my @ is bumboglungus there ok, good to know. i'll get to writing something up and i'll b back with u shortly to get your approval on it 👍

Shortly after this message, Kaz came back to me with this message, alluding to a situation going on with Trevor. He will talk about this more in his section, but all you need to know for the context is Kaz was upset after being caught using a cropped face from his own porn in a server with multiple people under 18, which is why he messages me this.

hey i might take a little longer to do this than i initially thought because i had a panic attack over something unrelated earlier and it really shook me to my core. please be patient with me, i promise i will send you my draft in due time when i begin to feel a bit better

I am aware of it just let me know when youre done
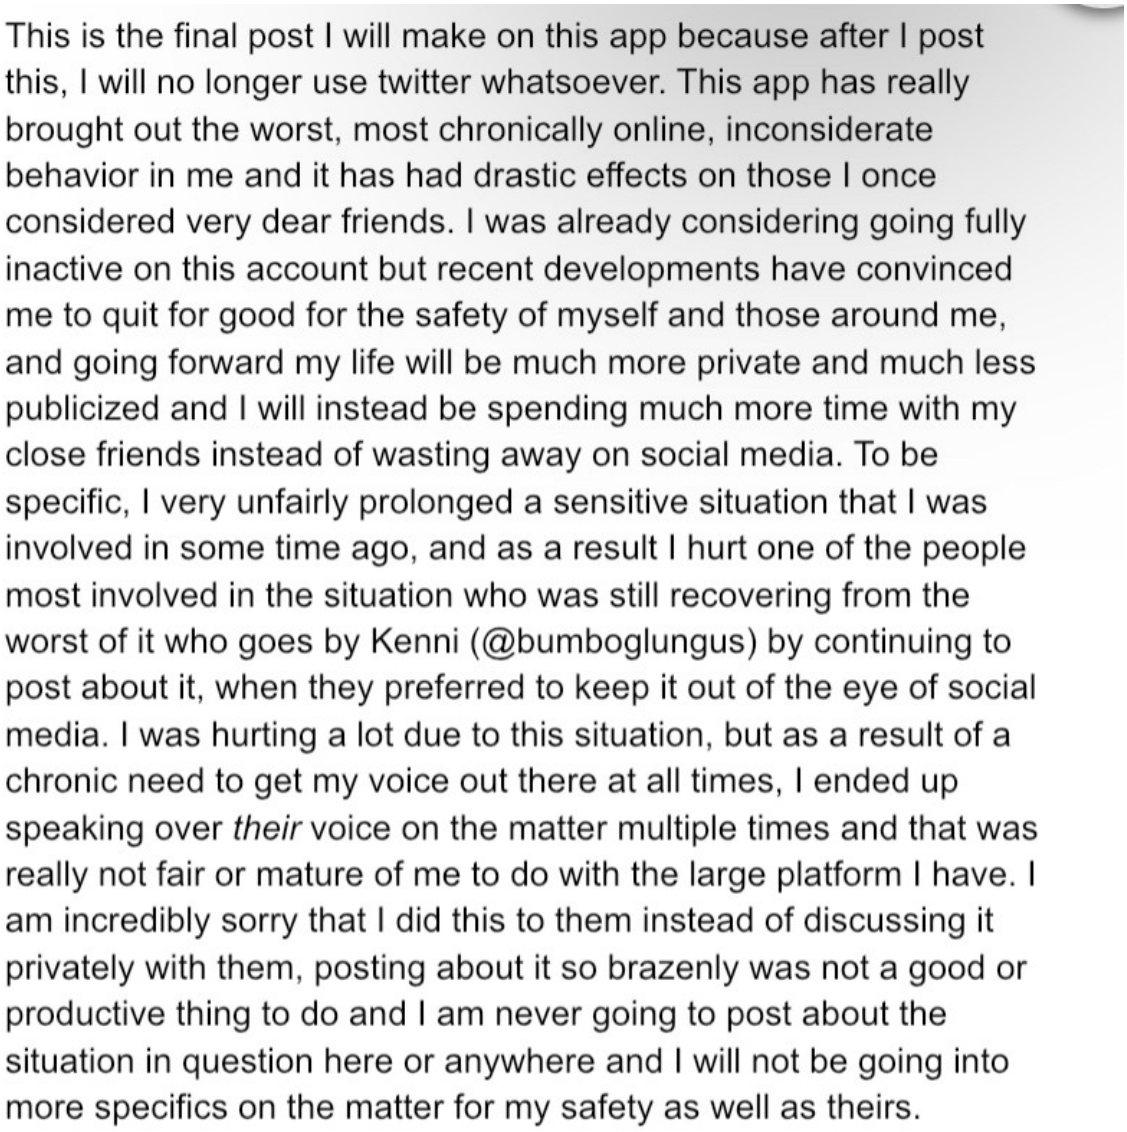
margo ✿(^ᴥ^U) 07/13/2024 7:40 PM
ok, thank you

Shortly after, Kaz sent me this for approval.



This is the final post I will make on this app because after I post this, I will no longer use twitter whatsoever. This app has really brought out the worst, most chronically online, inconsiderate behavior in me and it has had drastic effects on those I once considered very dear friends. I was already considering going fully inactive on this account but recent developments have convinced me to quit for good for the safety of myself and those around me, and going forward my life will be much more private and much less publicized and I will instead be spending much more time with my close friends instead of wasting away on social media. To be specific, I very unfairly prolonged a sensitive situation that I was involved in some time ago, and as a result I hurt one of the people most involved in the situation who was still recovering from the worst of it who goes by Kenni (@bumboglungus) by continuing to post about it, when they preferred to keep it out of the eye of social media. I was hurting a lot due to this situation, but as a result of a chronic need to get my voice out there at all times, I ended up speaking over their voice on the matter multiple times and that was really not fair or mature of me to do with the large platform I have. I am incredibly sorry that I did this to them instead of discussing it privately with them, posting about it so brazenly was not a good or productive thing to do and I am never going to post about the situation in question here or anywhere and I will not be going into more specifics on the matter for my safety as well as theirs.

However, while my behavior during this time was very selfish and inconsiderate, the bottom line is that this situation is salvageable and me and Kenni have agreed to forgive and forget so long as I address this publicly on this platform. I have already apologized to them very extensively prior to posting this, and they fully know that I regret my actions and am working towards making myself a much better person away from the public eye. I need to emphasize to everyone reading this to not direct hate towards me or Kenni. Kenni did not force me to make this tweet, Kenni is not making me “quit twitter”, Kenni is not a bad person. I am leaving because I am tired of the culture of this app and no longer find it rewarding. I was the one in the wrong in this situation, but it is not worth harassing either of us over because I am already putting in the work towards bettering myself and I understand that I have messed up. We are handling this civilly and maturely on our own time and I do not want to see any accusations being publicly flung around about this situation since I know how drama hungry this platform tends to be. There is no ‘drama’ between us and it’s not some massive beef or anything shallow like that. Do not attempt to pry into our private lives or get more information out of either of us. The only thing that matters now is moving forward from all of this.

Truthfully, this really is the best possible outcome for a situation like this, and I am thankful Kenni brought my behavior to my attention, as it has only motivated me further to become a much more composed, much less bitter person. I speak from the heart when I say that I am genuinely happy to leave Twitter (as well as taking an extended hiatus from other socials) because it means I can finally focus on my mental health and get started on my personal path of healing which I have been neglecting to do for so long. Kenni is a great person and they have been endlessly patient with me throughout this whole ordeal so far, I truly hope the best for them. I’ll still be kicking around in my own personal friend circles, so please don’t stress for my well being in this. I can assure you that I’ll be fine. This is for the best.

My final message I want to leave you all with is to just be kind to others and be patient with your life. That has been a very important lesson to me recently and I just want to impose that onto you all too. Just take things slow and talk to people before you think about doing something irrational - that advice really would've helped me in a time where I felt so lost and isolated from everyone else. I hope everyone has a good rest of their day, and I thank you all for enjoying my work here so much and for all the support you've given me over the years, but I'm moving on to greener pastures. Bye everyone.

I approved this post, and was told that he would post it the next day and text me before he did.

are we still doing this today hm.

According to a few others, he posted the apology on his account for a very short period of time without letting me know, and then deleted all of his social medias shortly thereafter. I tried to message him on Steam, to no response.

Shortly after this, Kaz made a new tumblr account under the name Purzdog, with the implication that he was being driven off his platforms via a “smear campaign.”

hello all welcome to my new blog. used to be @/googiekitsch but i was pressured into deleting by someone who really hated my guts and was on a massive smear campaign to ruin everything for me lawl. please please reblog so this funny little doggy can get all his funny little followers back ok????? be niceys to me? ^_^"""

This post was later deleted after Trevor talked to Kaz on artfight. As of the finishing of this section, the Purzdog account has been deleted, and we are unsure if there is any new account. Initially I was unsure about continuing this doc to completion after learning he had once again deleted everything, but we collectively decided to finish it, in the hopes that this will get through to him and none of this will continue.

Kaz, if you're reading this, please let me rest. I am so tired of my story being used incorrectly, without my consent, and taken from me. I wouldn't have even continued this if you hadn't publicly started talking about it, labeling it a smear campaign and running the moment you had to hold up your promise. I'm begging you to step away from the internet for good this time, and get the help you clearly need.

And to anyone else reading, the Planefood server that I was kicked out of for bringing this to attention, mutuals of his, or any passerby, I hope this doesn't seem like a "nothing burger" to you. This has plagued me for the last year, and I have tried countless times to resolve this privately and this is a complete last ditch effort for me. If this isn't sufficient for a post like this, I'm sincerely sorry. That's all I have for you. If you have any questions or further thoughts, here are my socials.

Trevor's Section

Before I get really into all of this I want to preface this with a fact; I first really became friends with Kaz when I was 15 and he was 18. We did know each other for a while when we were 14 and 17 but when we really started talking to each other it was right after we both turned 15 and 18. Kaz has always been the adult in our friendship.

This all really started for me about 12-ish days ago at the time of writing this. I found out through a friend of mine about how Kaz had been treating Kenni & got into contact with Kenni who explained the whole situation to me.

Soon after I sent Kaz a message covering what Kenni had told me and some personal incidents of him being inappropriate towards me which included him pushing him wanting his ex out of my older brothers mutual server onto me to the point i was the one who had to break the news to them because he refused to talk to them himself & constantly freaking out over any vague mention of my eating disorder which ended up causing me to join EDTWT because he was making it impossible for me to have any place to talk about it.

At first he understood but about 3 hours after I had sent him my first message about this he sent me a whole dissertation on how some of my recent behavior had been making him uncomfortable, that behavior being me making more suggestive art than usual & specifically that some of those images contained one of his characters from a project we had been working on together. While i do think he was right in some ways, especially with the fact that i never asked permission to draw something like that featuring one of his characters, that's like basic common sense and it just didn't cross my mind for some idiotic reason, that's 100% my fault and I will be more careful with the contents of what i draw in the future. BUT. He started drawing suggestive art of this character FARRRR before I ever did.

This image is from May of 2023 aka a MONTH after we started the project together (and also while i was still 15.) and while I don't have a problem with someone drawing an adult character getting up to adult activities and what not, even in the context of this project, my problem lies in the fact that he tried to pose me as some sort of creep because of a couple of drawings I had made of our oc's who were two adult men in a relationship.

He said to me that "I should have known that I was making him uncomfortable & that i should know better than to draw stuff like that when im 16 and he's 19" + later on tacked on that he would "always try and focus on other aspects of what i was drawing like the techniques used" but this brings me to another fact of the situation

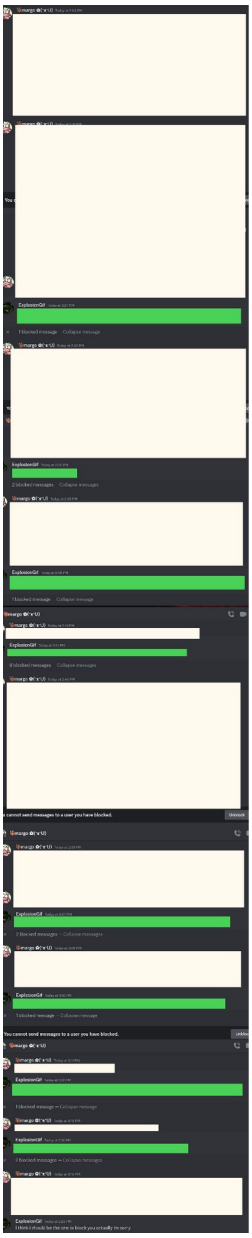
ohhh my god *looks at herliek

he tried to shift the blame of this situation onto me astounds me. It is not my job as the underaged person in our relationship to set boundaries like that. He's the adult, he has always BEEN the adult, it is his job to tell his 16 year old friend to knock it off if they were making him uncomfortable. The fact he expected me to know that I was supposedly making him uncomfortable over some mild art of two characters we had shared for a year at that point and were in a relationship as he was hooting and hollering over even MORE racy art of this guy is literally insane.



He even went as far as making me post a public apology to him on my instagram due to the fact that i would post the art i had made of our characters to instagram every once and awhile. The thing about that though is the account I had posted those specific drawings on had been deleted over a month ago by the time this happened and he was THERE FOR IT. HE KNEW! But he still made me post it onto my side account which literally had a tenth of the original following I had on my previous account.

It was very humiliating and I quickly deleted my account after posting it. This is a situation that should have been kept 100% private between the two of us but Kaz has a long running track record of blowing things way out of proportion and forcing things into the public when they can be resolved privately.

After I called Kaz out on the fact that he was basically lying to my face with his claims that he was giving me hints that he was uncomfortable as he was also responding to all of my stuff the way he did (+another thing relating to a custom emoji he had been using in my older brothers server that i will get into later) he went on a very long spiel that I genuinely wouldn't even be able to summarize here with how long & personal it was. A Lot of it was just him blaming everything on external factors.

All I’m willing to show is this image to the left I threw together at the time of it happening for my friends who were helping me through this to show them just how much he was saying to me, Everything in white was from him (censored for both of our sakes because there was a lot of personal stuff included.)

Kaz has always had a habit of sending giant walls of text during conversations which makes communicating with him in a concise manner incredibly challenging. I ended up having to block him at the end of this conversation because he just would not stop messaging me.

After this incident i was only in contact with him over artfight since by this time he had deleted all of his socials. I sent him this message in an attempt to get back in contact with him to finally resolve all of this.

We need to talk (Im not mad at you)

Sorry that i'm contacting you about this over artfight of all things i didn't want to do it over discord because of the whole blocking someone removes them from your friend list thing and i didn't wanna randomly scare you with a friend req but ANYWAYS i want to talk; I'm not mad at you i just like. I feel really really bad and i want to apologize to you and just see how your doing because i've been worried sick. I'm doing this over here because i think you should like give the go ahead if you are open to talking and if you aren't then that's okay.

Later that day i received this response from him

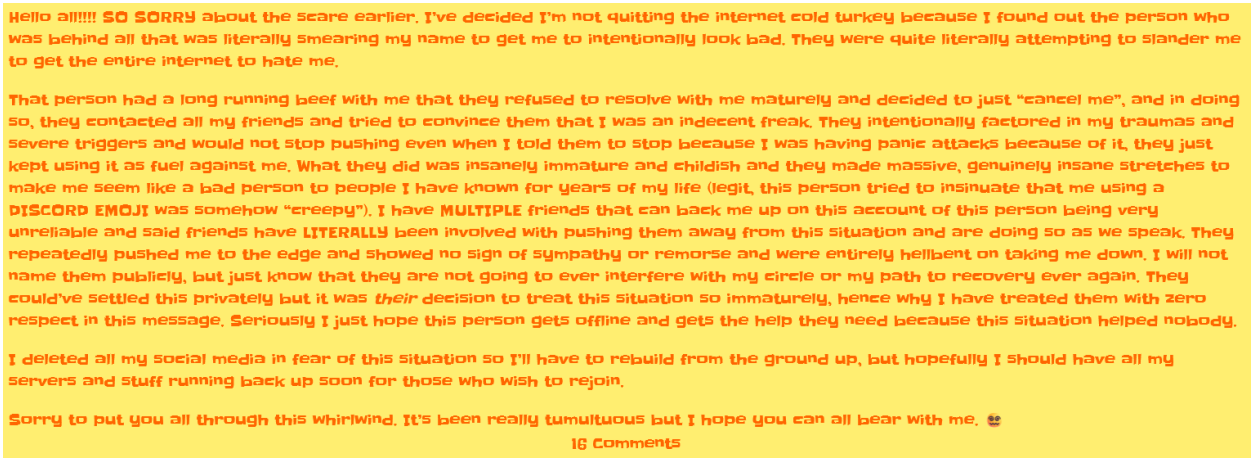
I'm perfectly fine with talking things out here, and I need to stress that you should not worry about me. I need to inform you that I have completely deleted all of my socials not out of fear from the situation (including my main discord) but out of realizing that being so online literally rotting my brain and that I needed to pivot my life towards my real life and what I have ahead of me. I won't deny that the situation at hand has freaked me out immensely but I just want you to know that my boyfriend has been incredibly kind and patient to me in this whole ordeal and hes been super diligent towards me [redacted] and I've been making a lot of progress in my path of mental recovery I can assure you that much. I've also been helping him with his own respective struggles and I've been spending much more time with my family which I've found to be very healing. I really want to reiterate that you were at no fault during the situation: it was my fault for being a genuine tweaker who had no interest in seeking help for myself. That being said I have no interest in really being your friend anymore in the sense we were before. The truth is that we're just operating in two entirely different circles now and I think it's for the best after this conversation if we both just go our separate ways. Please forgive me if my correspondence in this conversation is slow, I had to go to the hospital for the stomach flu like twice in five days (I have the pics of the IV in my arm to prove it) and I'm still setting things up for my upcoming community college courses as we speak so forgive me if I'm slow when it comes to replying. Again, I'm trying to live my life as offline as possible, so I hope you understand. I really do hope you've been doing well and that you're taking the steps you need to in order to be healthy and all that.

(Some parts censored for personal information) The funny thing about this though is that he was LYING TO MY FACE AGAIN. Once again later that day around 7 pm-ish i learned that he had returned to toyhouse and had remade his tumblr and was talking about a supposed “smear campaign”



Hello all!!!! SO SORRY about the scare earlier. I've decided I'm not quitting the internet cold turkey because I found out the person who was behind all that was literally smearing my name to get me to intentionally look bad. They were quite literally attempting to slander me to get the entire internet to hate me.
That person had a long running beef with me that they refused to resolve with me maturely and decided to just “cancel me”, and in doing so, they contacted all my friends and tried to convince them that I was an indecent freak. They intentionally factored in my traumas and severe triggers and would not stop pushing even when I told them to stop because I was having panic attacks because of it, they just kept using it as fuel against me. What they did was insanely immature and childish and they made massive, genuinely insane stretches to make me seem like a bad person to people I have known for years of my life (legit, this person tried to insinuate that me using a DISCORD EMOJI was somehow “creepy”). I have MULTIPLE friends that can back me up on this account of this person being very unreliable and said friends have LITERALLY been involved with pushing them away from this situation and are doing so as we speak. They repeatedly pushed me to the edge and showed no sign of sympathy or remorse and were entirely hellbent on taking me down. I will not name them publicly, but just know that they are not going to ever interfere with my circle or my path to recovery ever again. They could've settled this privately but it was their decision to treat this situation so immaturely, hence why I have treated them with zero respect in this message. Seriously I just hope this person gets offline and gets the help they need because this situation helped nobody.
I deleted all my social media in fear of this situation so I'll have to rebuild from the ground up, but hopefully I should have all my servers and stuff running back up soon for those who wish to rejoin.
Sorry to put you all through this whirlwind. It's been really tumultuous but I hope you can all bear with me.

His claims of a “smear campaign” are completely false. Kenni and I were not trying to “Cancel” Kaz in any way shape or form. We wanted him to just fucking apologize for his shit behavior towards the both of us & everyone else he had harmed. All of this was kept between a very tight-knit group of people so even the suggestion of a smear campaign is such a weird fucking move i genuinely have no idea what he was thinking.

And here we can finally get into the stuff with the emoji which I mentioned earlier. I learned through someone in my circle while I was talking to them about all of this that Kaz had been using an emoji in my older brother's server that was just straight up cropped porn from him. Seen using it in the server below.

I have accounts from multiple different people that Yes the full image is pornagraphic, i have never been SHOWN the full image, but since the people i have gotten this confirmation from were all in a nsfw server with him I am inclined to believe them. The server this emoji was sent in has multiple people underaged in it and even though you can't tell what's going on in the image, the fact that its cropped porn just doesn't MAGICALLY go away. The fact that Kaz just blew it off as a random discord emoji in his whole smear campaign bulletin tells me that he just cannot see himself in the wrong ever. It's weird to use CROPPED PORN as an emoji infront of underaged people like it's not 2018 anymore dude, it's not funny, it's really gross and inappropriate.

This is just another instance of Kaz’s massive victim complex in which any time someone brings up a problem they have with him he will immediately try to twist it in a way that makes HIM a victim instead of just owning up to it and apologizing. I'm very tired of him constantly doing this and even when I contacted him for the first time about all of this and TOLD HIM not to try to play the victim he did it anyways. At this point I believe there is zero way that he doesn't know what he's doing.

At the time of writing this it seems that he has finally taken his leave from the internet with deleting his new tumblr and making a bulletin saying so on his toyhouse but I still want my side of the story out there (Even though I didn't even want all of this to be public in the first place but Kaz had to go start lying about smear campaigns) because even in his most recent post about all of this he still has not outright said how he has hurt me and Kenni.

I don’t want Kaz to come back to respond to all of this personally, I want him to stay off the internet and become a better person because actually putting the steps into recovery is far better than any apology he could give me in my eyes. While i dont think Kaz is a full on predator & I wouldn't even call him evil, he has a lot to work on relating to how he behaves around people in his life and seriously needs to think before he starts doing something because it's just going to make things like this continue to happen. I truthfully hope he has learned from all of this and is actually going to stick to his word. Thank you for reading this
